TOUR GUIDE

DIGGERS LEGEND:

SECONDHAND VINYL LP/EP/45

NEW VINYL / CDs / DVDs

BOOKS / MUSIC RELATED & MORE

Touring record stores is a great way to see a city. This guide is put together with that in mind and uses the CBD as a starting point. You'll also find some useful transport tips under all the regional subheadings. For those shops further afield, overnighters may be in order, but hey, the promise of a crate at the end of the rainbow might just be enough to tip the scales in favour of an adventure!

SYDNEY CBD

We start in the middle of Sydney's CBD at Town Hall. Right behind the Queen Victoria Building you'll find Red Eye Records. From here you have two options. Head North to Birdland, Mojo Record Bar & Marlowe's Way, the last two of which can also serve you a refreshing beverage. This will place you in the vicinity of Darling Harbour and Circular Quay, from where you can take ferries to all sorts of great places around greater Sydney, including Parramatta.

From Town Hall you can also saunter south to Utopia and Lawson's Records where you will find yourself in the bustling and thriving China, Korea, Japan and Thai Towns. Here you can feast mightily, buy worldly groceries, fashion, tech, you name it.

EASTSIDE

The East Side is Sydney's Brooklyn, Soho and Left Bank all rolled into one: independent, creative contemporary and less than a kilometre from the CBD. Whether you cut across the Domain behind the State Library to start at the Woolloomooloo stairs, or sneak under the train arches from Haymarket through to Surry Hills, East Sydney is a 4km long ridge of indie retail, food, drink, clubs and boutique hotels.

The most obvious way to enter the East is Oxford Street – itself a 4km long retail strip up to Paddington, and which gets you halfway to Bondi. From Oxford turn right down Crown Street for The Record Store, TITLE Store and Suzie Q's in Surry Hills, or left along Darlinghurst Road (just after Taylor Square) to get you to Radio Free Alice. Cut one block east to Victoria Street, which is a foodie's dream, and then head north to Grand Days just near the Coke sign in Kings Cross.

NORTHERN SUBURBS

Sydney's North is loosely divided by Middle Harbour into the North Shore and the Northern Beaches. Sitting handily in the lower North Shore is TITLE Store Crows Nest, nestled among a mile of food and drink. The Northern Beaches are a little trickier to get to seeing as how there is no train line and so a bus you'll have to take. This is not bad for a day trip, buses are frequent; then again you could always book a stay up that way, as the Northern Beaches are one of Sydney's beautiful natural wonders and between Pigeon Ground, Audiomania, Sandy's, Pacific Records they have the coast covered.

NEWTOWN

Only a couple of train stops from the Sydney CBD and just beyond the University of Sydney is Newtown, the gateway to Sydney's Bohemian heart: the Inner West. Newtown's main drag, King Street, has a fantastic cluster of record shops around the station – you can walk in almost any direction and find yourself a vinyl retailer! The area is replete with antique, fashion and eccentric retail shops along with many, many food options.

Revolve Records, while technically in Erskinville, it's so close to Newtown that it made sense to include it here. It's literally just around the corner from Egg Records which is just a stone's throw from the station. Also just north-ish of the station you'll find Hum Records, all cosy with the Dendy Cinema. Heading south you've got Repressed Records, Classic Hi Fi and 567 King, leading you to the less-developed end of Newtown.

INNER WEST

While not as central as the Newtown cluster, the Inner West shops are all well worth a visit. The Record Crate is nestled in the heart of Glebe (just a few bus stops from Railway Square) where you can sip on an organic coffee or grab necessities from the neighbouring mall. Glebe is also a good jump-off point for a Newtown/King St dig!

From Glebe you can also head up Parramatta Rd where the grittiness of the city will become apparent. Look out for graffiti, because it's actively encouraged by local councils in this area. Here you'll find the Vintage Record, followed by Blank Records to the punk Black Wire. Sounds Espresso is further out from here, but well worth a day trip as Marrickville is a very interesting suburb FULL of great food and halfway through a warehouse to residential/retail metamorphosis.

WESTERN SUBURBS & BEYOND

Parramatta is often called Sydney's second CBD. You can catch a ferry or train up there from Circular Quay. The place has a lot to offer in terms of culture, food, drink and shopping. The crew at Beatdisc can provide you with hot tips on how to spend a day locally. While Richmond Records, The Velvet Fog and Mr Dyke's are the farthest stores on the map, it's great to know that whether you're tripping to the Blue Mountains or Mudgee (the land of milk and honey and wine), or using the Windsor area as a base, you can have a quality dig out that way too.

THANKS

This guide is a collaborative creation by all the indie record stores listed here and on our website. Assisted by Melbourne's Northside Records and Blisterfinger Design. Thanks to everyone who has supported Diggin' Sydney.
